Mayor Scovill gracefully assumed the duties of his office Monday evening for the third time, by making some commonsense remarks in regard to the business interests of the city. Matters of weight directly bearing on the fair fame and honor of the ctiy the past year had been happily solved and satisfactorily adjusted. The same rigid determination to co-operate for the common welfare and best interests of the city would be endorsed by all good citizens.

A. JACKSON WAGON SURPRISE.—Two young farmers of Superior, one near the ancient city of Dixboro, and one near Frains Lake, came, driving each one a pair of horses one day last week up to O. E. Thompsons agricultural warehouse, and asked if their father was around? On being told he was not, they were very anxious to know what he wanted them to come to Ypsilanti with teams for? The father had quietly (he being a very modest, quiet man) told Thompson that the boys were coming with their teams and to send them home each with a Jackson wagon. To say that the boys were surprised does not one half express it and they allowed that their father was quite different from fathers in general. Now one word to other fathers and those that are not, don't forget that the Jackson is the best wagon on wheels. Over seventy thousand dollars worth been sold in Ypsilanti and vicinity. Always in stock at O. E. Thompsons.

A GROWING BUSINESS.

There are few manufacturing institutions in our midst which have a steadier and more healthy growth than that of H. M. Curtis on Congress street. It occupies a square and gives sixteen men steady employment. The wood workshop, smith shop and finishing shop are busy hives of industry. He also keeps a man on the road selling his new patent carriage and buggy gearing. They find a ready sale in all parts of the state, as well as all the western states. The Fender, in which Mr. F. P. Bogardus is interested is being manufactured and the orders for it comes from all sections of the country. Mr. Curtis' local trade is large and increasing. It is such manufacturing institutions that promote the fame and growth of a town. The gearing trade has only just begun and the prospects are flattering that it will ripen into large porportions.

MICHIGAN STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

WHAT A PITY!

That a boy who might make a man should sell himself to mischief and incur the sure penalty. Tuesday night Ed. Martin knocked down and it is alledged injured the Fishmarket boy. He was arrested the next day by constable Palmer and handcuffed. Not suspecting an effort to escape he was closely guarded. Taking advantage he fled to his father's house, Washington St. The house was surrounded by trusty parties and Palmer searched the premises, finding him in the garret. He was taken before Justice Griffen tried on a battery charge and sent to Ionia for ninety days.

SEMINARY ITEMS.

Mr. Will McAndrew visited the school Wednesday.

The question for debate last Friday was, "Resoved that the attendance at the public schools should be compulsory." Hattie Salyer and George McGill were on affirmative, and George Ninde and Florence Williams on the negative. It was decided in favor of the affirmative.

Prof. Pattingill visited the school this week.

Prof. Foote's music class have begun working on the board. The class has been divided into two parts, each part reciting every other day.

YPSILANTI'S FAMOUS ARTIST.

AN UNTIRING STUDENT AND WORSHIPER OF THE GREAT CREATOR IN STONE. THE WONDERFUL PRODUCT OF THREE YEAR'S TOIL. GENIUS AND PERSEVERENCE IN UNFOLDING THE BEAUTIES IN AMERICAN MARBLE ROCKS.

Wednesday morning we accepted an invitation of long standing to visit the residence of our fellow citizen Mr. James McCoy. Encased in a cabinet, stands a cross in marbled stone. The pillars, cross pieces, and in center, pictured cross and makers's monogram, with a background of blue to impart better the shades of the 155 pieces of marble, which enter into the work, each one a shade and color of its own. The cross appears as if set into the recesses of the pillared marble. It is only a deception. This is genuinely mosaic, the natural color of the stone in each of 155 specimens. Never anything like it in this or any other country. Prof. Lodeman says, "That if the eye of a European monarch could rest upon this exquisite piece of genius and workmanship, McCoy's fortune would be made," Every one of the 155 pieces each differently shaded came from Mr. McCoy's 100 acres of land located seven miles from Deadwood, Dakota He spent days and weeks and months gathering the rough stone, grinding and polishing the same, and frequently after many hours work being disappointed in shading and color, compelled to throw one side.

This beautiful work of art, embracing so many varieties of American marble so ingeniously, with the instincts of a master mind, and as the result of intense and protracted toil and inspired by an artists faith, wrought out and interlaced in such harmonious and pleasing relations, must give the author and executor imperishable fame and an ample pecuniary reward.

He proposes soon to take it to New York. It will grace the parlor, library collection of some of New York's princely capitalists. To enable Mr. McCoy to secure the means to take it to New York or Boston it would be a good thing to place it on exhibition at home, at a dime for each visitor. This suggestion is made without Mr. McCoy's knowledge. An artist's resources are almost invariably limited, especially while taking the first steps in climbing the ladder of fame.

PERSONALS.

Capt. Bonticue has removed his family to Petoskey.

We were happy to see Prof. George on the street again after his severe illness.

Dr. McClean has been appointed surgeon-in-chief of the Michigan Central.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hendrick's from Pensylvania are visiting relatives in this city.

Mr. Newberry from Romeo, brother of Mrs. John Starkweather, was in town Thursday.

Mr. Wm. Cheever returned Saturday from a month's absence at Cincinnati and left Friday for N. Y. city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pelton who have been visiting their parents several weeks left for Texas Wednesday.

Justice Griffen was in business Wednesday, went to Bellville and returned in time to take the 11 a. m. train for Detroit.

O. A. and James Haven Bros. Detroit, visited their friends in the city Tuesday. The latter has rented the Worden whip socket factory.

Miss Hattie Gerry only daughter of the late lamented Mrs. Dr. Gerry, graduates from the Medical department of the University this year.

POLITENESS PAYS.

James Finnegan, a sailor bold,
Who, naturally, went to sea,
Was never known to swear or scold:
A mighty pleasant man was he.
'Twas his belief one never lost
By trying hard to be polite,
And 'twas his rule at any cost,
To do a favor when he might.
While sailing in the southern sea
His ship was wrecked; ships often are,
His mates were lost, but saved was he
By clinging to a floating spar.
He gained an island that was nigh,
And there he met a new mischance;
At once he was made captive by
The barbarous inhabitants.
They grabbed him with avidity
And bound him to an upright stake;
Piled wood about him. He could see
They meant that he alive should bake.
Now James was not at all inclined
To undergo a fricassee,
But still was to his fate resigned
Because, forsooth, he had to be.
A chief then tried to make a fire
By putting friction to a stick,
A toilsome task. He did perspire
Too much it almost made him sick.
James pitied him, and then bethought
Himself of matches. Chanced it he
Had some in a tin box and not
The least bit damaged by the sea.
His hands were free; a match he drew
From out the box; all to him turned
Their gaze. As sailors always do,
He scratched it on his leg. It burned,
He held it out for them to take;
They took it not, as you may guess;
With awe and terror all did shake;
Some fled with yells of dire distress,
The boldest dared not cut the band
That bound his body to the stake.
They gave him then to understand
That all he wanted he could take;
He ran the island, was the boss,
Till rescued by a passing bark.
No savage ever dared to cross
The man whose leg could strike a spark.

A STORY OF TWO SUMMERS.

BY HOLLIS FREEMAN.

CHAPTER IV.

A week has gone by, and it is Saturday evening at Llandudno—fine and warm and bright. The day has been hot and close, and when evening comes with its cool breeze and welcome shade, the people turn out of the hotels and and lodging-houses unto the parade, like bees out of a hive.

The parade is thronged from one end to another. Every chair is occupied round the band, and the people are standing round in one great crowd, listening to the music.

Miss Somerville is sitting down by the band, and, as usual, a little coterie is standing and sitting round her; but though she talks merrily and gayly, her eyes ever and anon quickly scan the masses of passers by, as if looking out for some one.

Bye and bye, a tall, dark, handsome, broad-shouldered man comes carelessly up. Miss Somerville greets him with a gracious smile of welcome; Mr. Lorrimer gives up his seat to him at once; Charlie Vernor strolls off; the others depart, one by one; and, as usual, Major Herbert is left a clear field. Somehow, it has come to be understood that when he makes his appearance no one else is wanted.

"Have you been sitting down some time?" he asks. "Would you like to stroll?"

She rises up, saying she "should like it of all things," and very soon they are following in the crowded walk of the promenaders.

"And so," he says, and his voice is somewhat moved from its usual calm, "you have bought, I hear, my old home, 'Fairmeadows.' I knew it was in the market again; but I did not know who was the purchaser till to-day, when your brother-in-law told me."

"It is strange that my new purchase turns out to be the home of your boyhood," she says, half apologetically.

"Oh well, it couldn't have fallen into better hands," he says, with a sudden change of voice. "I congratulate you on being the owner of the dear old place."

He turns the conversation, as if all has been said on that subject that need be said.

"There's the pretty lady in the Mother Hubbard cloak, that Charlie Vernon raves about. Some one told me to-day that she is a popular Manchester actress."

"I don't think she is half so pretty as that nice dark looking girl at our hotel."

"Well, beauty is such a question of taste. Charlie says there is no more animation or expression in Miss Ellis, than in a walking-stick."

Miss Somerville laughs then the next moment sighs.

"What is the sigh for?"

"Oh, the summer is nearly over; see how fast the evenings are closing in; and we are going away on Monday morning, remember."

"I have not forgotten that," he says gently.

"Come, let us go up to the band; there is going to be a song."

A man's voice is singing with wild, but sweet pathos.

"O the days of the Kerry dancing,
O the ring of the piper's tune!
O for one of those hours of glancing,
Gone, alas, like our youth, too soon."

"Hush," says Miss Somerville, authoratively; "I sten."

"When the boys began to gather
In the glen of summer night;
And the Kerry piper's tuning,
Made us long with wild delight—
O to think of it, O to dream of it
Fills my heart with tears!

O the days of the Kerry dancing,
O the ring of the piper's tune:
O for one of those hours of gladness,
Gone, alas, like our youth, too soon."

"It is a pretty air and words," says Major Herbert as, they walk away; "but rather mournful."

"I like it," returns Miss Somerville, "the man sang it with good taste and feeling; but isn't it getting time to go indoors—Polly has gone in half an hour ago."

"Will you let me say one word to you before you go in?" he asks pleadingly. "Just one word."

"Yes, if you wish to," she answers lightly; "but come down to the beach, I can't hear what you have to say here."

"Not there, not there," he cries hurriedly. "I can't speak to you there."

But she only laughs, as she leads on down the sloping shingle to where the chill, grey lonely sea is moving on with a dreary dirge. Her voice sounds like a sad refrain of its song as she sings:

"O to think of it, O to dream of it,
Fills my heart with tears!
O the days of the Kerrying dancing,
O the ring of the piper's tune!
O for one of those hours of gladness,
Gone, alas, like our youth, too soon?"

He looks round on the dark shadowy little Orme, and the deep, restless, lonely sea, with a half shiver; then he turns boldly to his companion.

"Miss Somerville," he says, "I think you know what I am going to say; if you could not have given me a favorable answer, you would hardly, I think, have cared for the hearing of it."

The smile with which she listens is so encouraging, that he goes on:

"I think you must know that you have won my love." You must have seen it for nearly a month now. You would hardly have been so cruel as to let me go on loving all the time if you felt that it was impossible on your part to give me any return."

She looks at him with the same smile, and a sudden chill creeps slow to his heart.

"Major Herbert," she says, "this is not the first time you have urged your love-suit to me on this very spot."

"To you?" he stammers.

"Yes, to me. Look well at me now. I am, strange—improbable as it may seem to you—the Effie Lea, the Little Red Riding-hood, the mystic maiden of the past."

It is impossible to describe the mingled scorn and derision of her tone.

"You Effie Lea?" he cries, hotly; "you, Frances Somerville? It is impossible."

"Listen," she says, in her cool, liquid tones. "We parted here some ten years. What I suffered then you may have some faint idea of now—that is, if at last," she continues bitterly, but triumphantly, "you have learned to love me."

He is silent, but looks at the smiling triumphant face, with dark, deepening eyes of angry wrath and passion.

"I went straight home that night, and told my cousin Frances Somerville, whose care I was under then, the whole story. Strange to say, my miserable little love-tale touched a sympathetic chord in her own life; through that paltry little confidence, Major Herbert, I became the sole heiress of her immense wealth.

He does not attempt to speak, and she still goes on.

"Miss Somerville pitied and sympathized with me, as only one wronged woman can with another. She agreed to our leaving Llandudno the next morning; soon after that her health broke down and she died, leaving me all her wealth on condition of my taking her name."

She stops and looks at him with merciless eyes.

"I was left with wealth, and youth, and independence, but one bitterness rankled and nestled in my heart and spirit, and spoilt all; one debt I would have given all I possessed to pay, and that payment I make to you to-night, after ten long years of waiting."

"Do you mean to say," he cries passionately, "that you—you—are really the Effie Lea of those old dead bye-gone days, and that you have treasured up anger and unforgiveness all that long term against me—me, who have so often thought of you with love, and sorrow, and self-reproach."

She looked at him with glittering eyes and smiling lips, and does not attemp to gainsay it.

"Miss Somerville," he says, and his voice is very cold and stern in its wounded anger. "You have acted an unwomanly and unworthy part. You once stood here and told me I had acted basely. I now stand here and tell you the part you have just played is a thousand times more base and cruel than any act of mine has ever been. You have wilfully and deliberately sought to win my love, that you may cast it back again with scorn and contempt. The Effie Lea I knew and loved, the gentle-hearted girl that bore with and soothed my waywardness and fretfulness, my madly stormy feelings of wounded pride and love, is now lost to me forever; she is as far parted as is light from darkness, from the false hearted Frances Somerville, who stands before me."

She draws herself up haughtily, and he goes on.

"Now that you have shown me your real self, I shall, I assure you, indulge in no more love-dreaming. The awakening has been a rough one, I grant, but the sleeper does not regret it."

He raises his hat and goes away with rapid steps, and Frances Somervill is left standing alone in the deepening gloom, with her long wished-for and madly striven-after triumph.

SUDDEN DEATHS.

Great excitement among Medical Men Over Heart Disease

Which is Fast Spreading Over the Whole Country.

From Cleveland Herald:

Many who seem apparently well are dying suddenly and those who are afflicted slightly do not know what it is, and what is still worse are in ignorance of a prevention and cure. This disease is fast on the increase, and one can scarcely pick up a newspaper without seeing an account of a sudden death from it. Physicians should warn their patients and tell them how to guard against it by recommending the best remedies within their knowledge. In a lecture recently delivered on this subject by the eminent Dr. J. W. Hawkins, Professor of Meteria Medica and Therapeutics in the Hahnemann College and Hospital of Chicago, Illinois, he says: There is probably do disease among the many to which the human family is liable that is so alarming as heart disease. The sufferer finds no pleasure in anything. He is in a constant dread of sudden death, and the physician who cures a patient from any form of heart trouble receives more credit and praise than he who relieves any other form of sickness. Many in whom heart disease had never been suspected have gone to sleep after eating a hearty dinner and never again awoke. This disease should command at once the immediate attention not only of every physician, but of every person at the present time because if by negligence or want of knowledge of a remedy that will arrest the progress of this terrible disease death may occur at any moment Heart disease has become more prevalent than any other form of complaint, and yet it is the last thing we are apt to think ails us, when in fact it is just what seven-eighths of the people are afflicted with. For proof of this the New York Daily Herald alone in their telegraph dispatches, have published in the last three months ninety sudden deaths, seventy-eight of which were from heart disease, making an average of nearly one a day, conclusively showing that the people are more afflicted with this disease than with any other. Physicians of the highest authority have given careful and exhaustive attention to diseases of the heart, and have compiled statistics showing the classes of people who were most subject to them. Those following agricultural pursuits are afflicted the most on account of being exposed to the changes of the weather.

Individuals suffering with kidney, liver or stomach difficulties are also greatly exposed to heart disease, because these organs play an important part in the purification of the blood, which is passed back and forth through this most delicate organ, the heart, and from thence is distributed through the whole circulatory system, thus, if these vital organs are in the least deranged, preventing them from performing their functions perfectly some form of heart disease must inevitably follow. Therefore, he who neglects the slightest symptoms of these common complaints puts his life in jeopardy. Yet there are thousands who are doing this very thing, though ignorance of the fearful consequences, as in the case of Mr. Henry White, a prominent citizen of Spencer, Ohio, who had heart disease in its worst form.

He says: "I paid scarcely any attention at first to my occasional spells of feeling badly, as my symptoms were so common among others whom I knew and were not by them regarded as serious. This led me to anticipate speedy recovery by resorting to such ordinary remedies as pills, bitters, etc., which I did. The foregoing treatment afforded me only temporary relief. Had I known at that time of the remedy that finally cured me I would have been saved a terrible sickness and great expense. I gradually grew worse, my stomach began to trouble me, my appetite failed, I became very nervous, was easily excited, had severe pain in my left side, was troubled with shortness of breath on the slightest exertion, sleep was short and unrefreshing, experienced a feeling of great danger, did not want to be left alone, and had a great fear of death. I consulted with several physicians, who said I had heart disease in its worst form, but their treatment failed to cure me. I continually grew worse, and finally made up my mind that I had not long to live. My attention just at this critical time was called to the great German remedy known as Von Tagan's Alaxine for the kidneys, liver and heart affections. I at once commenced using it, and rapidly and permanently regained health. So great is my faith in this remedy, that I believe it will cure every one affected as I was by persisting in its use, even if the first or second bottle does not effect a complete cure." No less remarkable was the recovery of Mr. R. Austin, one of the prominent citizens and merchants of Wellington, O. Mr. Austin commenced failing in health during the summer of '81. His were the most common symptoms at first, but were sure indications of serious heart affection. He says: "I commenced feeling badly, was languid, had dull headache occasionally, my tongue was coated, appetite was alternately poor and craving, I constantly had a tired feeling, my kidneys began to trouble me, my complexion became sallow, I had a severe pain and heaviness in my right side. I finally became so debilitated that my family became greatly alarmed at my condition, and although I was under a physician's treatment, I grew rapidly worse. My condition was one to cause grave apprehensions but by the timely use of Von Tagan's Alaxine I was soon restored to the best of health My appetite now is good, my blood was never in better condition; I am entirely free from kidney troubles; my complexion is clear, my sleep sound and refreshing—a sure indication of no heart affection, as I am told—and I would say that any person as I was, who neglects using Alaxine, will do themselves serious injustice." The testimony of these two prominent gentlemen is no less strong in its praise than that in hundreds of other cases reported. We would not have written at such length did we not feel the great importance of arousing the people to action on this vital subject, heart disease, and of bringing to their notice a remedy that will positively benefit and protect them. We are pleased to publish the following from the proprietors of Von Tagan's Alaxine: To Editors: Appreciating the efforts of the physicians and people of this country regarding the merits of our remedy, Alaxine, substantiating its great curative properties by the most reliable testimony, and urging its immediate use for the preventing and curing of heart affections, we therefore request all editors, for the greater benefit of their readers, to state that Alaxine is an elegant German pharmaceutical preparation, each teaspoonful containing the officinal dose of the different remedies used, and while it is a remedy of great power, yet it can be given with impunity to the most delicate child. We have recently adopted an unprecedented plan. We authorize all druggists, until further notice, to guarantee it to be of positive benefit to patients, and to refund at once price paid to those who report no benefit derived for complaints for which it is recommended. We give a contract to this effect with every bottle. We kindly ask those who have been benefited to assist us in spreading its reputation by advising its use to friends.

We are gratified to learn that E. Sampson has been appointed special agent for this most important remedy. (Ed.)

Messrs. McMillan & Hessler, Rockford, Mich., say: "Brown's Iron Bitters are selling well and gives good satisfaction."

When in fugitive slave times, a chain was stretched about the court house at Boston, to keep the enraged people away from the building which held Anthony Burns, and Chief Justice Shaw stooped to pass under the chains on his way to the bench, Wendell Philips told him that he had soiled the ermine of the bench and disgraced the name of liberty. It was an expression born of contempt for subserviency to what Mr. Philips regarded as a great wrong, and it was a fact that it was a humiliating spectacle to see the Chief Justice of a great State creeping to his court room under the emblems of bondage. But those chains were only emblems. They were nothing but harmless iron hanging motionless about a public building, really doing nobody any harm. But our bondage to the railroads of Illinois, and of the nation, is not emblematical. It is real—real as our life, and as burdensome and humiliating as any chattel slavery that ever existed. Yet we are told that it shall continue, that we shall not enjoy our constitutional right to select our own officials, but that this corrupt power will manipulate our conventions and corrupt our ballot boxes, and we submit to it. Degenerate sons of worthy sires!—Western Rural.

Dr. F. N. Lattimer, Ludington, Mich., says: "I have sold many dozen of Brown's Iron Bitters, and none failed to give entire satisfaction."

☞Dresses, cloaks, coats, stockings and all garments can be colored successfully with the Diamond Dyes.

"In choosing allies, look to their power as well as to their will to aid you." In choosing a remedy for bowel, liver and kidney diseases, try Kidhey-Wort, and you will never regret it. If you are subject to ague you must be sure to keep your liver, bowels and kidneys in good free condition. When so, you will be safe from all attacks.

The Democratic party is not a new organization which has sprung out of new convictions and purposes, and which may justly claim, as against a party which has failed, that it ought to be accorded an opportunity. On the contrary, the Democratic party has failed and fails at this moment in precisely the manner that the Republican has failed. It elected a House of Representatives eight years ago. What did it reform? What did it accomplish but arouse the apprehension of the country by a threat that it would stop the government if it could not control it? The Democratic party is always in power in the city of New York. What reform, what economy, what progress, is to be reported there? A spasmodic effort of some Democrats to do something to justify a pretence of the desire of honest and decent politics ended at this very election in a total surrender to Tammany Hall. The County Democracy, as the reformers styled themselves, united with Tammany Hall at the very moment that Tammany was denouncing and reviling Mayor Grace and Comptroller Campbell, the two Democrats in high municipal office who had practically proved their desire of reform and of rescuing the city from political sharpers. This is the Democratic record everywhere. Harpers Weekly.

Strength to vigorously push a business, strength to study for a profession, strength to regulate a household, strength to do a day's labor without physical pain. Do you desire strength? If you are broken down, have no energy, feel as if life was hardly worth living, you can be relieved and restored to robust health and strength by taking Brown's Iron Bitters, a sure cure for dyspepsia, malaria, weakness and all diseases requiring a true, reliable, non-alcoholic tonic. It acts on the blood, nerves and muscles and regulates every bart of the system.

The Very Latest News.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said one city swell to another. "No; do tell me what it is." "Well, I have at last got rid of my corns by one trial of PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR, and as I know yours are even worse than mine were, I couldn't pass without telling you to get a bottle at your druggist's. I'll guarantee it will fix 'em completely. It is sure, prompt and painless, taking the corns out at once. Sold everywhere. Beware of substitutes and imitations.

In no case should a person, on the approach of a tornado, run east or northeast; but on observing the storm approaching from the southwest, the direction to take for escape is either to the north or the southeast. On the appearance of the storm at a distance of a quarter of a mile, but a few seconds are allowed for escape, even from a line directly in the center of the storm's pathway; thus any action must be immediate but most persons see the cloud at a distance of several miles, and can determine very closely as to the path it is taking. A tornado cloud does not come out of a clear sky, and there are ample signs of its approach.—Seargeant Finley.

Rescued From Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

Amputation of the Leg.

The Old Family Physician at Fault—Dr. David Kennedy the Successful Surgeon.

Money is the universal necessity, and none but a cynic or a fool will affect to despise it. Mr. Abram Ellsworth, of Port Ewen, Ulster county, N. Y., had realized this truth. His disease involved the whole of his thigh-bone, and the suffering man looked forward, not without apparent reason, to death as his only deliverer. His family physician refused to amputate the limb—asserting, that the operation would kill the patient on the spot. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who was consulted, held a different opinion, and amputated the limb. The doctor then administered freely his great Blood Specific FAVORITE REMEDY to afford tone and strength to the system, prevent the return of the disease, and Mr. Ellsworth remains to this day in the bloom of health. This gentleman's disease was the offspring of foul blood, and Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY purified the blood and restored to him the power once more to enjoy his life. Are you suffering from any disease traceable to the same cause? Try Favorite Remedy. Your druggist has it. ONE DOLLAR a bottle. Bear in mind the proprietor's name and address: Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. 999-5w

What the forest fires were to the people of Michigan are the present floods along the Ohio River to the people of that locality; only here there are more people to suffer and more property to destroy. Here populous and prosperous cities have been ruined. The people have seen the water sweep over their homes and stay there. If Detroit along its entire river front south of Jefferson avenue with its railroad depots, its factories and its business houses were under water it would be in the position of the more fortunate among the cities along the Ohio. But if the Campus Martius was the highest ground in the city and that was covered by ten feet of water the people of Detroit would be in the plight of Jeffersonville and Lawrencebnrg in that state. Nathan Knapp says: WOLCOTT, N.Y.

Gents—I have been troubled with rheumatism for several years to such a degree that I found it impossible to attend my business, which is that of foundryman, and and have been confined to the house and to my bed much of the time. Have tried all sorts of remedies, and have been treated by several doctors, all to no purpose, until I finally heard of your Rheumatic Syrup, and was induced to try it, and I am very happy to say, after the use of a few bottles, I am as strong and well as ever, and never feel a symptom of anything like rheumatism any more. I can cheerfully recommend your Rhenmatic Syrup to all who are afflicted with rheumatism, for it is certainly a most invaluable remedy, and too much can not be said in its praise.

AN EPISCOPALIAN'S VIEW.—Dr. A. E Dickinson, in the Religious Herald, reports an Episcopal rector as remarking in a conversation held with him on denominational views:

"I do not wonder that you Baptists prosper, but rather that you do not have far greater prosperity. You have such a striking and unique position. What can strike the public eye so favorably as your baptism? You have only to read from the New Testament a dozen or two passages, administer the ordinance. Then your opposition to infant baptism, your demand for a 'Thus saith the Lord,' your Democratic form of government—all these are taking planks to your platform; and, besides, if a man is a Baptist, he can never be anything but a Baptist. It is not so as to the others. Methodists and Presbyterians can, without any sacrifice of principle, join the Episcopalians. We have the same communion table and the same ordinances."

THE NEWS.

Compiled from Late Dispatches.

DOMESTIC.

CAPTAIN HALL, of the United States Secret Service, reports that a new counterfeit ten-dollar note has made its appearance. It is a photographic copy of that of the First National Bank of Milwaukee, and is a fair imitation. The numbers are: "Letter B, 2,715; Treasury, 347,146; bank, 269; series of 1882." The portrait of Garfield and the seal, instead of being pink, are almost gray in parts; the border of the back and the lathe work are slate color, while they should be brown; and the back of the center, which ought to be green, is a pale olive. The lathe work on the portrait is poorly executed.

NEW YORK bankers and others were warned on the 4th against taking eleven stolen Bank of England notes for £1,000 each. The numbers include 75,180 to 75,190.

AMOS BAILEY, the colored murderer of Mr. Cain, a white man, near Little Springs, Miss., was taken out of jail by a mob a few evenings ago and lynched.

STRONG FACTS!

A great many people are asking what particular troubles BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is good for.

It will cure Heart Disease, Paralysis, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all similar diseases.

Its wonderful curative power is simply because it purifies and enriches the blood, thus beginning at the foundation, and by building up the system, drives out all disease.

A Lady Cured of Rheumatism.
Baltimore, Md., May 7, 1880.
My health was much shattered by Rheumatism when I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters, and I scarcely had strength enough to attend to my daily household duties. I am now using the third bottle and I am regaining strength daily, and I cheerfully recommend it to all.
I cannot say too much in praise of it. Mrs. MARY E. BRASHEAR, 173 Prestman st.

Kidney Disease Cured.
Christiansburg, Va., 1881.
Suffering from kidney disease, from which I could get no relief, I tried Brown's Iron Bitters, which cured me completely. A child of mine, recovering from scarlet fever, had no appetite and did not seem to be able to eat at all. I gave him Iron Bitters with the happiest results.
J. KYLE MONTAGUE.

Heart Disease.
Vine St., Harrisburg, Pa. Dec. 2, 1881.
After trying different physicians and many remedies for palpitation of the heart without receiving any benefit, I was advised to try Brown's Iron Bitters. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief.
Mrs. JENNIE HESS.

For the peculiar troubles to which ladies are subject, BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is invaluable. Try it.

Be sure and get the Genuine.

Good Will to Man—Onward and Upward.

Judge Chipman has denied the motion for a new trial in the McLean case. The Evening News declares its intention to send it to the Supreme Court and fight it out in all possible directions to the bitter end.

"Land for the landless" was the cry of demagogues in congress and on the stump for years and the boast of one great measure brought about by the republican party. There was never a bigger humbug. The law is made so loosely, as if on purpose to be invaded and become in reality "Land for the spectators," and the landless poor go a begging. "Land for the landless" turns out only the cheapest kind of stump, and platform trash.

THE YOUNG MINISTER.

Mr. Sunderland, pastor of the Baptist church, delivered the last of his course of lectures upon the "Young Men of the Bible," on Sunday evening The "young minister" was Timothy, the beloved companion of Paul in many of his journeys. Though it is believed that Timothy lived to an advanced age, laboring as a minister of the gospel, yet our knowledge of him is limited to his life as a young minister. Possessed of a loving and sympathetic nature he was a great source of help and strength to Paul; cheering him in his loneliness and sufferings.

The great central purpose of Timothy's life was to know and do the will of God. His readiness and willingness, his great love and faithfulness were his marked characteristics.

After a full and interesting account of Timothy's life and work, Mr. Sunderland spoke of the needs of the ministry at the present time; of the many who feel a call to the work of preaching the gospel yet are unwilling to enter it; and of the burden which many bear through life in consequence; of the opportunities of gaining wealth and fame which many other professions offer in place of the humble, self-denying life of a minister, leading many to choose other professions rather than the noblest, grandest of all; of the excuses given for not entering the ministry, the most reasonable perhaps of all being a feeling of unworthiness, of the duty of the church to look out those who appear fitted for the work and to counsel and encourage such. If christians would heed the call—not a voice of thunder, but the still small voice calling to duty, to work for the Master—it would not be long before the great need of preachers would be supplied.

AN YPSILANTI BOY COMING TO THE FRONT.

The Baptist ministers held their regular weekly meeting yesterday morning at the Grand Pacific hotel, Dr. P. S. Henson presiding. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. T. Burloe and the minutes of the last meeting, were read and approved. A scholarly lecture was then delivered by Dr. Everett W. Fish on the "Taurian Myths," which is that part of ethnic mythology which relates primarily to bull or animal worship, The Taurian element, it is claimed and sustained by a long array of facts, is introduced into mythology from the fact that the bibical flood occured on Nov. 17 at the "culmination of the Pleiades," the beautiful Taurian group. From this the doctor derives all the bull or animal worship of the ancients, and connects it with the commemoration of the flood. He showed that all the religions of the world were from one source, and by analyzing the names, significations, and formulas connected them with the biblical account of the flood. The burden of the address may be summed up under the following general heads:

1. The common fatherhood of all races is shown in the words Noah, Noe, Non, Nan, Nanoah, M'Noah, Manu, Mani, Mnes, Menes, Minos, T(h)or, Taur, Ator, Tuur, Tyr, Taon, Tiw, Teo, and Tezpl.

2. A common origin of all religions is shown in the Abrahamic theism through Abraham, or Brahm, or Vrahm; Phoo. Foo, Phoot, Bhoot, Bood, Buddha, and Phut; Ammon, Amun, and Ham.

3. A common festival of the dead occurring among all known races in the islands of Polynesia, the depths of Africa, among the aboriginal Peruvians and Mexi, as well as the Egyptians and modern races—all occurring in November, and all relating to the culmination of the Pleiades, or the Taurian constellation.

4. That the worship of the bull was universal, in view of the memorials to Taur. Athor, Thor, Atauria, Bulu, Polynesian gods, and all the festivals of the dead were universal commemorations of the bull, with annimal worship or sacrifice, in every case, the name, formulism, and traditions being purely and indisputably "flood."

5. That even the names of the months in which these formulisms occurred with these people were all of bull and flood significance—as Athor, atauria, of Egypt and Arabia.

6. That the word bull was of direct linguistic descent through Iberian and Slaw, from Bul and Tau—Tau in the pre Egyptian Chaldee glyph being a bull, signifying flood through all the ages.

7. That the glyph of Apis, in Egypt was the ark and flood glyph, and his worship was a flood formulism, and that the "Isea" in Egypt was the type of every successive form, reaching to the Hallowe'en of the present day.

The conclusions drawn from these propositions were that the entire race of man had a common origin, and that every instance of ancestral worship was but a reverence of Noah, or a teacher of Abrahamic theism. It also contended for a tremendous retrogression in the human family, the lowest branch, as the Australian blacks, having full Taurian formulism. While unable to count the fingers on their hands, yet the statement was made that in a single generation under missionary teaching these cannibals became metamorphosed into scholars and philosophers. The tend of the address was toward the doctrine of a universal flood, but the doctor disclaimed it as an object, in the presence of weightier conclusions, the universal traditions being conclusive of such a fact. The lecture was exemplified with hieroglyphic representations and lingual deductions, given with apparent familiarity with Oriental literature.

With a vote of thanks to Dr. Fish the meeting adjourned.—Chicago Times.

We would like to hear Dr. Fish an Ypsilanti boy and at one time a Normal student give one or two of his famous lectures in this city. If invited to lecture before the Normal school societies he would probably accept the invitation.

Dr. J. P. Newman, TOCCOA CITY, GA., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters are very popular and their use always results satisfactorily."

There is no greater bore for a teacher and none more demoralizing for a school than parents so freely asking excuses for the absence of their children. It is annoying to the teacher and bad for the pupil.

No individual has a right under the moral government of God to do that or acquire any habit which will make it difficult for him or her to do right. He or she is bound to do that which will make it the easiest possible to do right:

The above is thought of sufficient importance to be quoted from THE COMMERCIAL into the Michigan Christian Herald. It is really an axiomatic truth. Obeyed, the result will be a manly and womanly character.

The well-known "ACORN" Stoves and Ranges are made by one of the oldest and largest houses in the country, Messrs. Rathbone, Sard & Co., of Albany, Detroit and Chicago, and the name "ACORN" is given only to the better class of goods. The "ACORN" has led off in the recent great improvements, and while some of them have been imitated, the patent office gives protection to essencial features. The greatest care is given to the quality of materials and workmanship in making the "ACORN." Tasteful designers make them attractive in apperance, and long, practical experience has taught the manufacturers how to make them durable, economical, good bakers and convenient. Thousands of testimonials could be produced showing their superiority in these points; but the reputation of the "ACORN" and its manufacturers is so well established, the improvements and advantages of the "ACORN" are so apparent, that with the recommendation and guarantee of the seller, you may select an "ACORN" with perfect confidence that you are getting the best cookng aparatus for the money, that is sold. In both Cooking Stoves and Ranges there is so large a variety in size, price and finish, as to supply the wants of those who want a good but cheap article, as well as those who want the very best. The "ACORN" is made for burning either wood, coal, or both. Every variety of Reservoir, Hot Closet, Hot Shelf, Water Back, &c., can be supplied. As you buy a Range or Stove to last twenty years, secure a good reliable one, that will be satisfactory to use every day in the year—a poor one is dear at any price—the best is the cheapest.

SURGEONS

From the International throat and lung nstitute, of 13 Philip's Square, Montreal, and173 Church Street, Toronto, Ont., will be at the Hawkins House three days,

May 28, 29, 30,

at which time they will have with them a supply of Spirometers, the wonderful invention of Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, exaide surgeon of the French army, for the cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, and all diseases of the head, throat or lungs requiring medical or surgical treatment.

This Institute is the only one on the continent, where diseases of the air passages alone are treated. The specialists connected with the same, by devoting their whole time and study to this one class of diseases, have established for the institute, an unbounded reputation, that is well known throughout Canada and Europe. This has been brought about by case after case being cured by them, which had been pronounced incurable by other physicians, iustitutions and impostors, calling themselves specialists.

Physicians and sufferers are invited to call and try the Spirometer, which is now in use in all the leading hospitals in Europe, for treatment and cure of the above named diseases. Crowds are visiting the surgeons in every town and city.

Is Fun Better Than Physic?

Fun is excellent; a hearty laugh is known the whole world over to be a health promoter; but fun does not fill the bill when a man needs physic, on the other hand people take too much physic. They would be more healthy, live longer and enjoy life thoroughly if they used Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures all blood disorders, indigestion, kidney and liver troubles, removes pimples and is a perfect tonic. Can be taken by the most delicate. Only 50 cents per bottle, of Frank Smith. 4

OUR MINERAL WELL!

GONE AHEAD!

For several weeks we have been telling about the Mineral Well improvement and noting progress. Last week it was "Going Ahead." Now it has Gone. The contract between Mr Geo. Moorman and Mr. Cornelius Cornwell has been consumated. Mr. Clark Cornwell is a partner in the enterprise with Mr. Moorman. A contract has also been entered into between the above gentlemen and the committee of citizens in the interest of the subscribers.

Instead of being a fourth part of the Mineral Well improvement, the $5,000 is only a sixth part,—not a cent less than $30,000 will be expended in well, pump, pipes, grading, location and building. The laying pipe and grading in the rear is begun. It is proposed to take the bank down in the rear, extend and terrace out.

PUSHING.

In 90 days it is proposed to give baths and have accomodations for the eager throng who, from Maine to the Gulf stream, are watching and waiting for fear death will overtake them before they can behold and quaff the healing waters.

BUT DON'T DESPAIR.

Orders from abroad for large quantities of the water are filled daily.

Besides, Dr. Hall has accomodations for a number of bathers and our supurb hotels furnish every convenience.

BIGGER THAN ANTICPATED.

Mr. Moorman has contracted, under a money forfeit, to purchase the Philips property, adjoining, at the expiration of six months, for $4,000.

CONTRACT FOR BATH HOUSE.

"Articles of Agreement made and entered into this Eighth day of May, 1883, betwein George Moorman and Clark Cornwell of the city of Ypsilanti, Michigan, parties of the first part, and Isaac N. Conklin, Robert Lambie, Daniel L. Quirk and Charles King, committee, parties of the second part, as follows: The said Moorman and Cornwell agree to erect and construct as soon as practicable, a bathing house on the east side of Huron street in said city, to contain forty-eight bath rooms; and to furnish and complete, within ninety days after the date hereof, twenty of such bath rooms, with the necessary appliances for furnishing baths of the mineral water from Cornwell's Mineral Well, and the additional number when needed: to keep an accurate account of the cost of the real estate, buildings, fixtures, furniture and apparatus proper and necessary, and furnish said committee with such account and vouchers when requested.

And whereas, certain liberal persons have subscribed and agree to pay said committee Five Thousand dollars as a bonus, to be paid to said Moorman and Cornwell for undertaking and completing such bathing establishment. Now it is understood and agreed that such committee shall go on and collect such subscriptions, and pay to said Moorman and Cornwell, out of such subscriptions, twenty-five per cent of the expenditures of said Moorman and Cornwell in purchasing the real estate and building such bath house, bath rooms, and furnishing the same, provided the whole amount of such expenditures shall not exceed twenty thousand dollars, and provided that the amount of bonus shall not exceed Five Thousand dollars: payments to be made to said Moorman and Cornwell in monthly installments, as the work progresses, to be proportioned according to the expenditures made, as ascertained from such account and vouchers.

And said Moorman & Cornwell agree to keep up such bathing establishment and to furnish such Mineral Baths for five consecutive years next following the completion of such establishment, provided such Mineral well shall not fail. It being understood that said Moorman and Cornwell are to use all reasonable and business-like diligence and efforts on their part to make such mineral bathing concern popular and profitable. It is further understood that

Is entirely different from any other in use, and consis of a Strong Canvas with an Outside Surface of Felt and a Manilla Lining. These are cemented together with patent Acid and Water Proof Composition, and the whole compressed together into a flexible sheet, resembling leather, forming the Strongest and Most Substantial roofing in use.

This Roofing is adapted to Steep or Flat Roofs of All Buildings, and can be used over Shingle roofs that are so flat that they always leak.

Estimates given for this roofing On the Buildings or for the Material, purchasers putting it on themselves, (which requires no skilled workman to do.)

STONY CREEK.

The W. F. missionary society at the M. E. church will give a public entertainment, on Sunday evening May, 20 consisting of addresses singing and dialogues. The exercises will be controlled by the ladies, the community are cordi ally invited to attend.

Saturday evening May 5th, the hired man of Mr. VanDine, saw a two horse carriage with the driver go over the bank. On going to their relief he found the man gasping in death and soon expired. Justi ce Barr summoned a coroners jury, and learned on examination that the man's name was Lewis of Deerfield, Mich., a traveling agent, and intoxicated. A bottle of liquor and $20.08 was found on his person. A telegram was sent to Deerfield and friends came on Sunday morning and took the body away.

WILLIS STATION.

Uncle Joel Powers of Paint Creek, was burned about the face and hands last week while trying to fire some rubbish with matches using tow in which was a fair sprinkling of gun-powder. It went off with a flash and he threw it on the pile coming in contact with three or four ounces of powder that he had thrown on the heap there was an explosion lifting him from the ground and turning him round, the shock caused considerable lameness of the back and hips, but at present he is able to smoke his pipe and laugh at the joke he played on that powder.

Miss Borlan of Hillsdale is visiting relatives in this vicinity at present. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Russell.

And then a young man,
Whose sir name, was Dan,
Tried St. Jacob's oil
On his sore eyes,
It gave him the cramps
And he went where such tramps
As St. Jacob would be a surprise.

The wheat crop in this vicinity is looking up since the rains, the prospect is favorable for half a crop, it winter killed most on the highest lands.

Hurrah for the mineral well,
If a hundreth part of what they tell is true
The well is worth its weight in gold,
The smell of it will cure a cold,
And break a fever, I am told;
The truth of which, I do not doubt,
The water cures, rheumatic gout,
And those that use it go about
To tell the news, and air their views.
They say the water beats the Jews;
And others say that they are sure
Of one thing, that is simon pure
About the water of the well,
And that is its unearthly smell.

From the Argus.

There don't seem to be enough virtue in the present legislature to pass the bill prohibiting legislators, judges and state officers from accepting dead-head tickets over railroads. Perhaps it is asking too much from men whose pockets are filled with pasteboard entitling them to ride free on railroads, to rise above their influence and pass a bill which at no distant day will be enacted. Some people think that there is not enough in this to constitute a question of importance. Members of the present legislature who voted against this bill, will live to see the time when the acceptance of a pass by a legislator, state officer or judge, to be not only a misdemeanor under the law, but will be a sufficient cause, as it ought, to defeat them at the polls thereafter. Public opinion is yet blunted on this indirect method of influencing legislators holding the reins over railroad corporations.

W. D. Harriman, Mrs. Gov. Ashley and Miss Climie Houghton have been appointed local delegates to attend the Western Unitarian conference to be held in Chicago from May 10 to 17.

From Courier.

EDITOR COURIER:—In the Detroit Evening News of a few days since, among its State news items, I saw a brief notice of the death, at Ionia, of Miss Eliza Page, formerly of Ann Arbor, and a school teacher here forty years ago. The statements of the article were true, and I desire to add a few words to the News' item in relation to that excellent woman and teacher.

Miss Page was a daughter of David Page, who with his family came to this place from the State of Vermont in 1831 or '32. Rev. William Page, the first Presbyterian clergyman of Ann Arbor, was a brother of Miss Page, with a younger sister, opened a school in the little village in 1834. It was called "The Female Seminary of Ann Arbor." It was a school of high order, as the following notice shows:

"The fall term of the Misses Page's Seminary will commence September 30, in which will be taught Natural, Moral, and Intelleectual Philosophy, Rhetoric, Astronomy, Chemistry, Botany, Logic, Algebra, Geometry, Reading, Grammar, and History. Monsieur L. Fasquelle, A. M., of the University of Paris and Milan, Professor of the French and Italian languages, will give lessons in either."

The Misses Page taught an excellent school. Prof. Fasquelle was for many years a very useful and popular teacher in the University, an honored and highly respected member of its faculty. Miss Eliza Page was 91 years of age at the time of her death.

From the above dates it will be seen that her school was opened here nearly half a century ago. L. D.

Undoubtedly more lawyers are admitted to the bar of the Washtenaw court than to all of the others in the State combined. This is because nearly all of the law students, immediately before or after graduation, pass an examination and are admitted to practice. They are required to sign their names on the County Clerk's rolls, and this list now has nearly 1,000 names upon it, many of them being judges or occupying prominent positions as advocates. The list has been kept, and County Clerk Robison, in order to preserve it more safely, has been having it nicely bound, together with blank pages for the enrollment of those to come. The book will always be very convenient and useful for reference.

ANN ARBOR.

At the request of Mayor Harriman and leading business men, C. K. Leonard of the National gas and water works construction company of Cleveland has been in town the past two days and is preparing water works specifications, which will be submitted to the city council. The system proposed is that of pumping the water directly from large cisterns, to be located near the river. The prevailing sentiment is that the city should build the works, and the council will be asked to submit the question to the people at a special election.

Walter Brown's circular says: We have again to record a month of extreme dullness in the wool trade, manufacturers have continued the policy which characterized the business of March, of buying raw material only as their necessities required, and as most of them had stocked up quite freely in February this necessity has not been prominent during the past few weeks. Family of Hon. Mr. Ball, ex-state member of the Legislature:

Mr. Ball's family consists of himself, wife, four daughters and one son. The latter graduated at the Agricultural College last year, and we found him busily engaged in taking care of a very fine lot of 40 lambs sired by Star Bismarck. In this case, at least, a graduate of the college can be found who proposes to make farming his vocation, and in a short time he will take a partner's interest in the farm and stock. The eldest daughter graduated at the Normal School last season, and the next two are in the junior year at the same school. The youngest, Alice, now nine years of age, is at home, and is as much interested in stock matters as her father. To her has been entrusted the care of the chicken department of the farm, and the 50 or 60 Plymouth Rocks in her charge show from their fine condition that they are not neglected. In the evening when the work was done she sat down to the piano and played accompaniments to her brother, who is quite an artist on the violin, in a manner which would have done credit to a much older head.—Michigan Farmer.

A DESIRABLE BOOK.

The passenger department of the Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railroad, of Michigan, has published for gratuitous distribution among the patrons of the line, a pamphlet of eighty-eight pages, containing a large amount of information valuable to the tourist and business man. The work contains descriptions of the more notable pleasure resorts of Michigan, all of which are to be reached by means of this line of railroad and its connections and is replete with illustrations. In addition it gives the game laws of Michigan and indicates the places where game is known to abound. The city of Detroit one of the oldest towns on the continent, is fully described, while the commercial interests of the state and the more prominent business houses are impartially referred to. The pamphlet may be had on application to Wm. A. Carpenter, General Passenger Agent, at Detroit, Mich.

THE AGE OF LUXURY.

A stronger illustration of the luxurious demands of the age in which we live, can not be found than that afforded by the new Dining Cars of the Michigan Central Railroad.

The improvements in traveling facilities during the past few years have been on a scale qualified to kill wonder in anything new, but these latest cars are so marvelously exquisite in finish and so much in keeping with the rich toning to which the American people are educating themselves, that in addition to their attractiveness as dining rooms they afford pleasure to all critical observers, and cannot be passed without placing them on record as decidely new, in that they surpass the cars of older models to a degree that places them on a plane above what we have heretofore thought fine.

The cuisine of the cars is attended to with the same desire to raise the standard to a point where they will be remembered and pointed to as models in the culinary line.

The new cars are four in number and are called the "Wentworth," "Australia," "Detroit," and "St. Thomas," and will be run on the principal express trains between Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Buffalo, and Niagara Fall, on the New York and Boston lines, and to those of our friends who desire to keep posted on the progress of the times we would say, that the next time you have occasion to travel east or west, try, "The Niagara Falls Route." The other accommodations of the line are in every respect on a par.

Important to Owners of Buildings.

Look Here! Linger a Moment, and Listen to FRANK SMITH'S Reasonings on Detroit White Lead Works' Liquid Paint.

It is economy to keep a building well painted. Good paint preserves a building from decay and ruin.

It is good policy to keep your home looking neat and Cleanly. It is more attractive to your family, and commands more respect from your neighbors

The question then arises, what shall we paint with? We answer, Detroit White Lead Works' Liquid Paints.

Liquid Paints are fast superseding White Lead, and will be the Paints of the future. They are more convenient than White Lead. Properly made, they are far more durable than White Lead alone.

THE DETROIT WHITE LEAD WORKS' LIQUID PAINTS ARE POSITIVELY THE BEST.

They should be given a preference over all others. They are a Combination of Pure White Lead, Zinc, Linseed Oil.

Pure Lead alone will powder or chalk off.
Pure Zinc alone will peel off.

Combined, each counteracts the other's poor qualities.

These Liquid paints, being a proper combination of Lead and Zinc are absolutely the BEST HOUSE PAINTS it is posssible for man to make.

Remember these paints are not Chemical Paints.

No Rubber nor Soapine, etc., but Pure Lead, Zinc, and Linseed Oil ONLY.

Now that you know what is best, insist upon having it and take no other.

They are put up in all sized packages from one pint to fifty gallons.

They are all READY FOR USE, requiring no oil, thinner, or dryer.

Beautiful Tints, also Outside White and Inside White.

The following Guarantee will be on Each Package.

GUARANTEE.

We guarantee the quality of our Liquid Paints to be superior to all others, and we will repaint, free of cost, any building painted with them where they do not prove more durable than White Lead and Oil, put on in the ordinary way.

We guarantee our Liquid Paint to contain no adulteration. And not to blister, crack, peel or chalk off, when used according to directions.

Y. For sale everywhere. Send for circular.

Rheumatic Syrup Co.: BUTLER, N. Y., March 10, 1882.

Gents—I take this opportunity to express my gratitude for what your Rheumatic Syrup has done for me. After suffering over one year with the Rheumatism in my shoulders, so I could hardly get my coat on without help, a friend induced me to try one bottle of Rheumatic Syrup. After taking it I could see such a decided change that I continued its nse a short time and it cured me. 995-3m DANIEL ROE.

THE PREVENTION OF SCARLET FEVER.

Now that scarlet fever is again at its work in the city, we think it well to print the following from The Register of August 16, 1872:

Scarlet fever is unfortunately so well known that it is not necessary to use much space in describing its ordinary characteristics; but it can do no harm to reinforce the idea of its destructiveness. Some idea of this can be formed by comparing it with small-pox—the very mention of which never fails to cause a panic in the threatened locality. From the best statistics at hand, it seems that where three persons die from the latter, in this country, twenty die from scarlet fever; and this is due not to small-pox being essentially less deadly, but to the comparative efficacy of the means for preventing it. There can be little doubt that if scarlet fever merely disfigured the faces of half of those that it kills, the necessity for urging the adoption of precautions against it would be greatly lessened. * * * * It is a disease which beside being deadly in the primary effects of its poison, has an almost unparalleled list of complications and sequences. It is not influenced by social conditions; the rich fare no better than the poor; the healthiest and best nourished children having, apparently, the greatest liability to suffer from it. Moreover, and here is the point which especially should be urged, it is probably the most eminently contagious of all contagious diseases. * * * * *

So far as scarlet fever is concerned, one efficient health officer is of incomparably greater value to a community than all the doctors in the place, if we consider their treatment alone. The great point when a case of the fever occurs, is to make the best of a bad job by endeavoring to prevent its communication to others, by isolation; and by destroying the poison from this new source as fast as it is produced We give the most feasible methods of of doing this, in the hope that, with a spread, among the laity, of a knowledge of what is required, physicians will be stimulated to an interest which, at present, too many lack.

The shortest and most comprehensive rules which we have seen for the management of these cases, are those abridged by Dr. Smith from the Report of the New York Board of Health. They are with, some unimportant omissions, as follows: "The patient should be placed in a separate room, and no person [nor domestic animals, as they have been known to convey the disease] "except the physician, nurse or mother, allowed to enter the room or to touch the bedding or clothing used in the sick-room until they have been thoroughly disinfected. * * * * All clothing, bedding or other articles not absolutely necessary for the use of the patient should be removed from the sick-room. Articles used about the patient, such as sheets, pillow-cases, blankets or clothes must not be removed from the sick-room until they have been disinfected by placing them in a tub with the following disinfecting fluid, or something equally efficacious: eight oz. sulphate of zinc, one oz. carbolic acid, three gallons water. They should be soaked in this fluid for at least one hour and then placed in boiling water for washing. * * All vessels used for receiving discharges of patients, should have some of the same disinfecting fluid constantly therein, and immediately after use by the patient, be emptied and cleansed by boiling water. Water-closets and privies should also be daily disinfected with the same fluid, or with a solution of chloride of iron, one pound to a gallon of water, adding one or two ounces of carbolic acid. All straw beds should be burned. * * * It is advised not to use handkerchiefs about the patient, but rather soft rags for cleansing the nostrils and mouth, which should immediately thereafter be burned. The ceilings and side-walls of the sick-room, after removing the patient, should be thoroughly cleansed and limewashed, and the woodwork and floor, thoroughly scrubbed with soap and water."

In cases where it is not practicable for the carpet of the room to be removed, it may be protected by newspapers, covered with sheeting or canvass, which should be left down until the room has been fumigated by burning therein about an ounce and a half of sulphur for each one hundred cubic feet of space. * * * The patient should be kept isolated until all signs of peeling off of the skin have entirely disappeared, and the room should remain unoccupied and open to the air for a week after fumigating, limewashing, etc. If any discharge from the ear continues after the disease, great care should be taken for several weeks, to destroy at once the cotton upon which it is received, as this has been known to act as a source of infection.

In addition to reprinting the above we would add that, during the convalescence, every care should be exercised to prevent the patient from getting chilled in any way, as such chilling is especially apt to lead to kidney disease. —Ann Arbor Register.

Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup gives your kidneys and liver a jog to help relieve your lungs of a bap cough, or your child of croup. There can be no membraneous croup when Universal Cough Syrup is used in the first symptoms of the disease· No family with children can afford to be without it one day. 25 and 50 cents. may

The King and the Poor.

The Hofburg, the chief palace of the Austrian Sovereigns, has been the scene of an ecclesiastical cermony or act of devotion which is a curious relic of mediæval customs. In accordance with the usage observed from time immemorial on Maundy-Thursday, the cermony of "washing the feet of the poor" was this morning performed as usual by their Majesties at the imperial residence. In the middle ages the custom prevailed at many other Catholic courts, but in the present day to find a parallel would be impossible, except at the Vatican and the palace of the King of Spain. The proceedings opened at nine o'clock, when twelve old men, of whom the oldest is in his ninety-third year and the youngest eighty-seven, and twelve old women, the oldest ninety-six and the youngest ninety, dressed as usual, in the old German costume, presented to them by the Emperor and Empress, entered the court chapel, in order to receive the sacrament, and were then brought into the hall of ceremonies at the Hofburg. On each side of the hall was a table with twelve covers, the one table for the old men and the other for the old women. They are all citizens of Vienna, and many among them showed by their behavior that they have taken part in the ceremony more than once. With the appearance of the clergymen at 11 a. m. the ceremony began. The Emperor, who was followed by all the archduchesses and court ladies, served the old women at their respective tables. The corps diplomatique was, as usual, in attendance, but this year, for reasons generally known, the British, French and Turkish ambassadors did not appear. All the ministers were present, as well as court dignitaries and privy counselors, the chamberlains, the grand masters, and the highest representatives of the army. The tables being removed, the Emperor and Empress knelt down in front of each of the old people, took off a shoe and stocking from each, washed the foot with towels moistened from a golden ewer held by a chamberlain. After the feet of the old people had been wiped the archdukes and archduchessess replaced the shoe and stocking, and their Majesties concluded the ceremony by hanging round the neck of each of the old people a purse with thirty silver florins. The old folks were then sent home in cabs, each with a well-filled box of provisions and wine. —London Standard.

Philosophy by a Doctor.

A short time ago, when traveling, the celebrated Dr. Barthez was taken sick, and according to the manner of all physicians, he called in a fellow practitioner to attend him.

When the strange doctor put in an appearance Dr. Barthez discovered, to his stupefaction, that his colleague was none other than an old servant of his.

"How is this! You a doctor! Since when? and what can you do?"

"Sir, I picked up a little medicine in your service, and I have great success here."

"Is that possible?"

"Yes, and more so than you could have yourself."

And seeing the astonishment of his old master, he continued:

"How many inhabitants do you think this town numbers?"

"I do not know; 20,000 perhaps."

"Yes, about that many. And how many do you think are really intelligent and capable of appreciating your merits?"

"I do not know."

"Let us say a thousand, and that is ample. Well, the thousand are yours, and the rest belong to me."

Barthez became thoughtful for a moment, and then answered: "It is true, and you are right. And this is the way of the world, notwithstanding its constant improvements; in spite of the recriminations of all honest and modest doctors, the multitude will always belong, be they great or small, humble or exalted, politicians and doctors, ignorant or wise, in health or sickness, to charlatans, who are invariably gifted with that imperturable assurance, which, under the name of 'brass,' fascinates and conquers the public, who accept their theories and cower before their assumed superiority."—Detroit Free Press.

To Flood Sahara.

Count de Lesseps has explored the route for himself, and he declares that the construction of a canal to flood the great African desert with the waters of the Mediterranean is feasible. There has been doubt as to whether the surface of Sahara is higher or lower than the surface of the sea, but his triumphant dispatch from Tunis indicates that he has obtained information that to perform his feat it will not be necessary to make water run up-hill. It is proposed to cut a channel through the narrow neck of land which separates the salt marshes south of Tunis from the Gulf of Gabes, and thus pour an ocean into the vast basin of sand whose farther rim is the border of the Soudan—a land of the riches of India and the population of the United States. France has been eager to bring the heart of Africa to the light of civilization and the wealth of the same to the pockets of Frenchmen, and Col. Flatters expended three years of toil and $100,000 of treasure in the attempt to fulfill his ambitious prediction: "I will cross Africa with a railway." Since his slaughter by Arabs the scheme to penetrate the heart of the "dark continent" with a railway has dropped from public attention, and Count de Lesseps, the great uniter of the earth's waters, has laid his stupendous project before his admiring countrymen, with sublime confidence in his ability to secure $15,000,000 for the work by merely asking. The count is now nearly 80 years of age, and in his long and romantic career he has accomplished prodigious achievements, but if he restores to the burning sands of Sahara the waves which in a remote age rolled over them, the creation of an ocean and the civilization of a continent will be the climax of his career and the chief marvel of his fame.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

PROHIBITION IN NEW-JERSEY.

The Temperance party of New Jersey propose to amend the Constitution of that State so that the distilling of spirits and the brewing of beer shall be prohibited by the fundamental law. This is the right way to go about it. It brings the qnestion squarely before the people. If a majority of them are in favor of putting an end to distilling and brewing within the limits of New Jersey, they have the power to do it, although they must, of course, carefully observe every one of the present provisions of the Conotitution regarding the method of amending that instrument. On the other hand, if a majority are opposed to prohibition, they have the power to prevent it by voting the proposition down. When the case comes up for final decision before the supreme tribunal of the people, and when that decision is rendered, all parties must submit. From the decree of that tribunal there is no appeal. N. Y. Sun.

The following is the plan adopted by the Republican National committee:

The republican national convention of 1884 shall consist of four delegates at large from each state and two delegates from each congressional district. The delegates at large shall be chosen by popular delegate state conventions called on not less than 20 days' published notice and held not less than 30 nor more than 60 days before the time for the meeting of the national convention. The republicans of the various congresional districts shall have the option of electing their delegates at separate popular delegate conventions, called on similar notice, and held in the districts at any time within 15 days next prior to the meeting of the state Conventions, or by subdivisions of etate conventions into district conventions, and such delegates shall be chosen in the latter method if not elected previous to the meeting of the state conventions. All district delegates shall be accredited by the officers of such district conventions. Two delegates shall be allowed from each territory and from the District of Columbia, similarly chosen. Notices of contests may be given to the national convention, accompanied by full printed statements of the grounds of contest, which shall also be made public, and preference in order of hearing and determining contests shall be given by the convention according to the dates of the reception of such notices and statements by the national convention.

The grand precedent made at Chicago is adopted, and district representation endorsed as a Republican doctrine henceforth, as the Evening News well says:

It strikes a heavy if not fatal blow at the system of bossism which has heretofore enabled some dominant politician in each state to carry his state delegation in his pocket to the national convention.

The story of the sentry who refused to believe that Mr. Lincoln was the President, and ironically addressed him as "Old Sanitary," was nearly paralleled the other day in the experience of President Arthur. Calling at the Treasury Department, after it had been closed to visitors, and asking the watchman—who did not recognize him—if the Secretary of the Treasury was within, he was met by the request to take the watchman's place at the door while the latter went inside. This the President did, being instructed to see that no one obtained admittance, and until the return of the man with the information that the Secretary was not in, served efficiently in his humble position.

"I am Proud"

A lady patient writes from Fishkill Plains, Dutchess County, N. Y., to Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y.: "My foot is entirely well, and I never felt better in my life than I do now. I am very proud of 'Favorite Remedy.' Shall I continue its use?" does the reader inquire. It was ulcerated from impure blood. "Favorite Remedy" purified the blood and the ulcer was healed. Charles A. Dana, ex-Secretary of War, and editor of the New York Sun, who is a bitter enemy of General Grant, pays the following tribute to one trait of his character: "General Grant never swears. In all our acquaintance with him we never heard him utter a profane word. His example in this respect was as consistent as it was conspicuous. Most army officers will swear when they are excited. General Scott used to swear. General Sheridan will put in an oath now and then to give emphasis to his ideas. Not so General Grant. We have been with him in some of the most trying circumstances of his military career, and can testify that no cause of anxiety or of anger has ever drawn any sort of oath from his lips.

A LOTTERY DISCOUNTENANCED.

A small country church in this tates recently made a donation party for the benefit of the pastor who sorely needed an annex to his salary. At the party a number of persons not members of the church undertook to swell the revenues by selling chances for a cake. Certain church members protested against it, but in vain. The sale continued. Competition drew in the dimes and drew out also some feelings not found in Paul's list of the fruits of the Spirit. At the close of the entertainment, the proceeds of the lottery were tendered to the pastor who promptly and politely declined to receive them.

The pastor who took this stand deserves the commendation of all good men. He has preached a sermon against gambling which will make a deeper and more durable impression in that neighborhood than anything he could say on the subject from the pulpit. And when next he touches that topic in his pulpit ministrations, he may speak with a force that he could not possess if he had consented to the sin whose profits he declined to receive. The moment he accepts help so obtained he neutralizes his influence as a teacher of morals with all thoughtful men.—Michigan Christain Herald.

A NATION GOING TO THE BAD.

Disregarding not only the laws of the States and the nation, but every requirement of the higher law, these men have become practical free booters, and are audaciously and successfully bidding fifty millions of people to stand and deliver. If the victims appeal to the legislature for protection, they find that their servants are bribed, bought and bound; if to Congress that its members are the paid clerks of the people's oppressors; if to governors, that they are busy paying the debt under which the political influences of monopoly has brought them. And so they turn back to their farms, stores and workshops, to earn a pittance for bread and a fortune for monopolies. Year after year this drudgery goes on. Not a man, woman or child in the whole nation escapes the relentless assessment. The merchant and the farmer, the artisan and poor sewing girl, the day laborer and the invalid, the teacher and the scholar, must bow to this ceaseless and cruel demand for money to enrich those who toil not, neither do they spin. Every article of consumption, food, fuel, clothing, books, dwellings, shrouds, and coffins, must pay a heavy and illegitimate tax to the small coterie of millionaires, who, endowed with the powers of monopoly, stand with their grip upon our rights. Every year increases their power and the relentlessness of their demands upon the industries of the nation.—Western Rural.

One Great Deed is Enough.

Watts invented the sream engine; Morse, the electric telegraph; Whitney, the cotton gin, and Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., discovered and prepared the "Favorite Remedy," which is worth more than all of them, because it saves life and cures disease. It purifies the blood, drives the bile from the system, cures those delicate diseases peculiar to women, and is, in short, a sheet-anchor in every household. Don't spend your money in paying doctors, when for One Dollar a bottle you can have the "Favorite Remedy" always on your shelf. 999–2w

NEUTRALIZED.

In what way a Prevalent Evil may be Shorn of Its Power to Harm.

Malaria is a broad name for many diseases—all originating in blood poisining. Bilious fever, the typhus and typhold fevers and chills and fever are prominent members of the family. Malaria defies alike the builders, the plumbers and the physicians. Despairing of ordinary treatment, the latter almost unanimously recommend BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER as the greatest anti-malarial specific of the age. These plasters act upon the liver spleen, bowels and kidneys.

Worn over the region of the liver, and upon the back over the kidneys, they ward off malaria like an armor. No other plasters do this.

When you purchase satisfy yourself that the worn CAPCINE is in the center of the plaster.

The Cornwell Mineral Water

FOR BATHS

Has thus far proved beneficial when adapted to the case and used at the proper temperature. It is decidedly so in the various forms of Rheumatism and Chronic Catarrh, and diseases of the kidneys and the stomache. The Invigorating and Tonic effects are very marked. The water is penetrating and searching. For the muscular tissues, in my opinion, it has thus far shown, in the bath, powerful tonic and alterative medical qualities.

I believe it will develop in future use, wonderful healing qualities.

BATHS NOW ARRANGED
For Ladies and Gentlemen, Day and Evening.

Am confident the Mineral Baths will remove Scrofulus Humors and Erysipelas from the blood and cure Skin Diseases.

MARRIED.

VORHEES—MARKELL.—At the Presbyterian church in Romulus, April 25th, by the Rev. J. Willard Jacks, MR. GEO. W. VORHEES, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and MISS MARY H. MARKELL, youngest daughter of Mr. Levi Markell, of Romulus N. Y.

The above is taken from the Ovid, (New York) Independent. The bride is a niece of Squire H. Markell of this city. The groom has been employed in Deubel's mills, living with Mr. Deubell. The couple calculate to settle at Belleville, the groom to take charge of the mill at that place.

DIED.

TUESDEL—HENRY J. TUESDEL, of Canton, was drowned April 27th near Saginaw, aged 23 years 8 months and 12 days. His remains were brought home for interment.

The following was handed in for publication.

Under the sod he is sleeping low,
Under the daisies and clover.
Died in the flush of manhood's glow,
Our tender and beautiful brother

Far from our earthly sight,
Far from the hearts that enshrine him,
Dwelling afar in that world of light.
O! why do we linger behind him.

Though the bright sun of his life had set,
When from our presence they bore him.
Still he is living and loves us yet,
And still in our hearts we adore him.

Michigan does not propose to insure any of its public buildings and hence the Normal School buildings are uninsured.

The social held at the Presbyterian parsonage on the 1st inst, for the purpose of raising money to buy new singing books for the Sunday School, was a great success, the manse crowded, and a handsome sum realized. Entertainment consisted of tableaux, supper, etc. The profuse praise given the ladies and gentlemen who worked for its success was merited, and an additional pleasure, was the privelege of meeting their old pastor, Rev. J. M. Richmond who was spending a few days in the city. The following poem was written to read during the evening:

MAY DAY.

Welcome beautiful month of May
When flowers first burst in bloom
Welcome young voices blithe and gay,
To sing a merry tune.

We come to make a new advance
In social friendship free,
To meet the pastor at the manse,
And hear sweet notes of glee.

We come with pleasure in our looks
To join the happy throng
And help to buy the singing books,
And hear the choral song.

We come to talk and laugh and sing
And eat our supper too
That life may more of pleasure bring
To friendship, kind and true.

Welcome the Captain, brave son of Mars,
And those who lead the choir
The evening stars, sweet notes, and 'Bars.'
To raise devotion higher.

We come to give a friendly hand,
More joy and less of sadness
A cheerful working christian band
In mutual love and gladness.

Welcome to all both great and small
To walk in better way
May hearts be right and days be bright
Like the flowers in bonnie May.

But merry May will not endure
Soon its beauty will be o'er,
O for a land that's ever pure,
Where flowers will fade no more.
